ANNUAL REPORT STANDING POLICE CAPACITY

UNITED NATIONS POLICE DIVISION (PD)
OFFICE OF RULE OF LAW AND SECURITY INSTITUTIONS (OROLSI)
DEPARTMENT OF PEACE OPERATIONS (DPO)
UNITED NATIONS

Foreword by the Chief of SPC

In my speech at the 2022 Geneva PeaceTalks, I aimed at placing ‘police service’ at the heart of the peace forum: “We need to put all our efforts towards peace, everywhere and always; no one should take peace for granted!”. I trust that we, at the Standing Police Capacity (SPC), never took peace for granted, as can be evidenced in the pages of this report.

2022 marked the 15th anniversary of the SPC. Over this period of its existence, SPC deployed to all Peacekeeping Operations (PKOs) with the exception of UNDOF, UNMOGIP, or UNTSO (none of which have a UN Police presence). In 2022 alone, SPC deployed to six operations: MINUSCA, MONUSCO, MINUSMA, UNFICYP, UNISFA and UNMISS. It also provided support to UNITAMS, UNSOM, UNSMIL as well as BINUH where I acted as Police Commissioner, and continued to promote effective UN policing practices through, inter alia, the roll out of the UN Police Training Architecture. As part of Police Division, SPC is a system-wide service provider and was also engaged in non-mission settings. It actively engaged too in key international policing and peace events, including UNCOPS and Viking 2022, the world’s largest international staff exercise.

Of course, this is a team effort, and the achievements in 2022 would not have been possible without the support from former UN Police Adviser, Commissioner Luis Carrilho, and the UN Police Division team in New York. I am also particularly grateful for the generous support of the Federal Republic of Germany through extra-budgetary funding as part of a project to help Member States prevent conflict as well as build and sustain peace through rule of law and human rights-compliant police, justice, corrections and DDR-related institutions and policies.

Challenges in 2022 were of course not few.

Firstly, a few difficulties remained in this post COVID-19 year, such as the slow resumption of the normal flight connections between Brindisi and Rome.

Secondly, there has been an evolution moving towards an increasingly impact-oriented focus including on prevention and strengthening the rule of law. Like all UN Police, SPC must forward not only A4P+, but also the New Agenda for Peace and its potential six core areas. SPC, as the operational arm of Police Division—and thus having a link with UNHQ and the field operations—is well placed to be a critical part of how the Department of Peace Operations addresses this challenge. SPC has also been serving an increasing role in linking UN Police in peacekeeping operations with UN agencies, funds and programmes, both before and during transition and after mission exit.

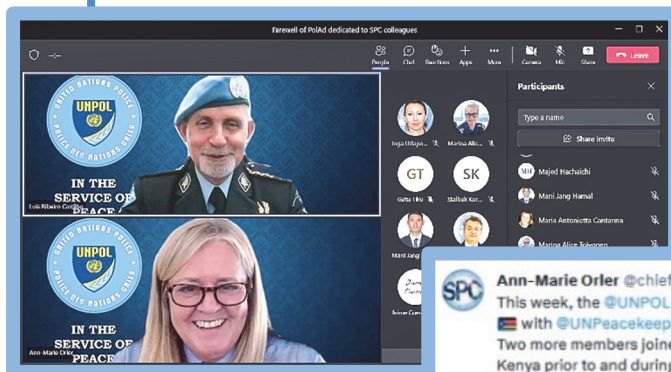

Thirdly, and based on changing demands, additional police capacities have been on the rise in areas including forensics, skills to combat cybercrime, border management, crime data analytics and management, including social media monitoring and analysis tools to address mis- and disinformation, and protection of natural resources to help strengthen environmental rule of law.

My vision for 2022-2023 and beyond includes a four-point strategy to address those challenges:

1. Reinforce collaboration with UN partners which includes the United Nations Inter-Agency Task Force on Policing (UN IATF-P), regional, sub-regional and other organizations, including through a platform for information exchange on operational and cross-cutting matters and the necessary resources.
2. Remain committed “to provide police advisory services” and “continue supporting efforts to increase the participation of women in political processes and undertaking gender-responsive policing by applying gender perspectives, which disproportionately affect women and girls in conflict situations and has been further exacerbated by Covid-19.”
3. Adopt a broader understanding of changing conflict dynamics, together with its root causes, to contribute to the necessary mitigating strategies including the recognition of the impact of national strategies to tackle crime-related emerging trends.
4. Remain adaptable and agile with technical skills and relevant profiles to respond and contribute to efforts of UN Police, host state law enforcement and security institutions in addressing emerging global trends that trigger conflict.

SPC will continue to contribute to enhancing the concept of a United Nations Police that is “accountable, representative, mission-oriented, mobile, flexible, specialized, rights-based and norm-driven, system-wide service provider and a focal point across the United Nations system for police and law enforcement matters”.

Introduction

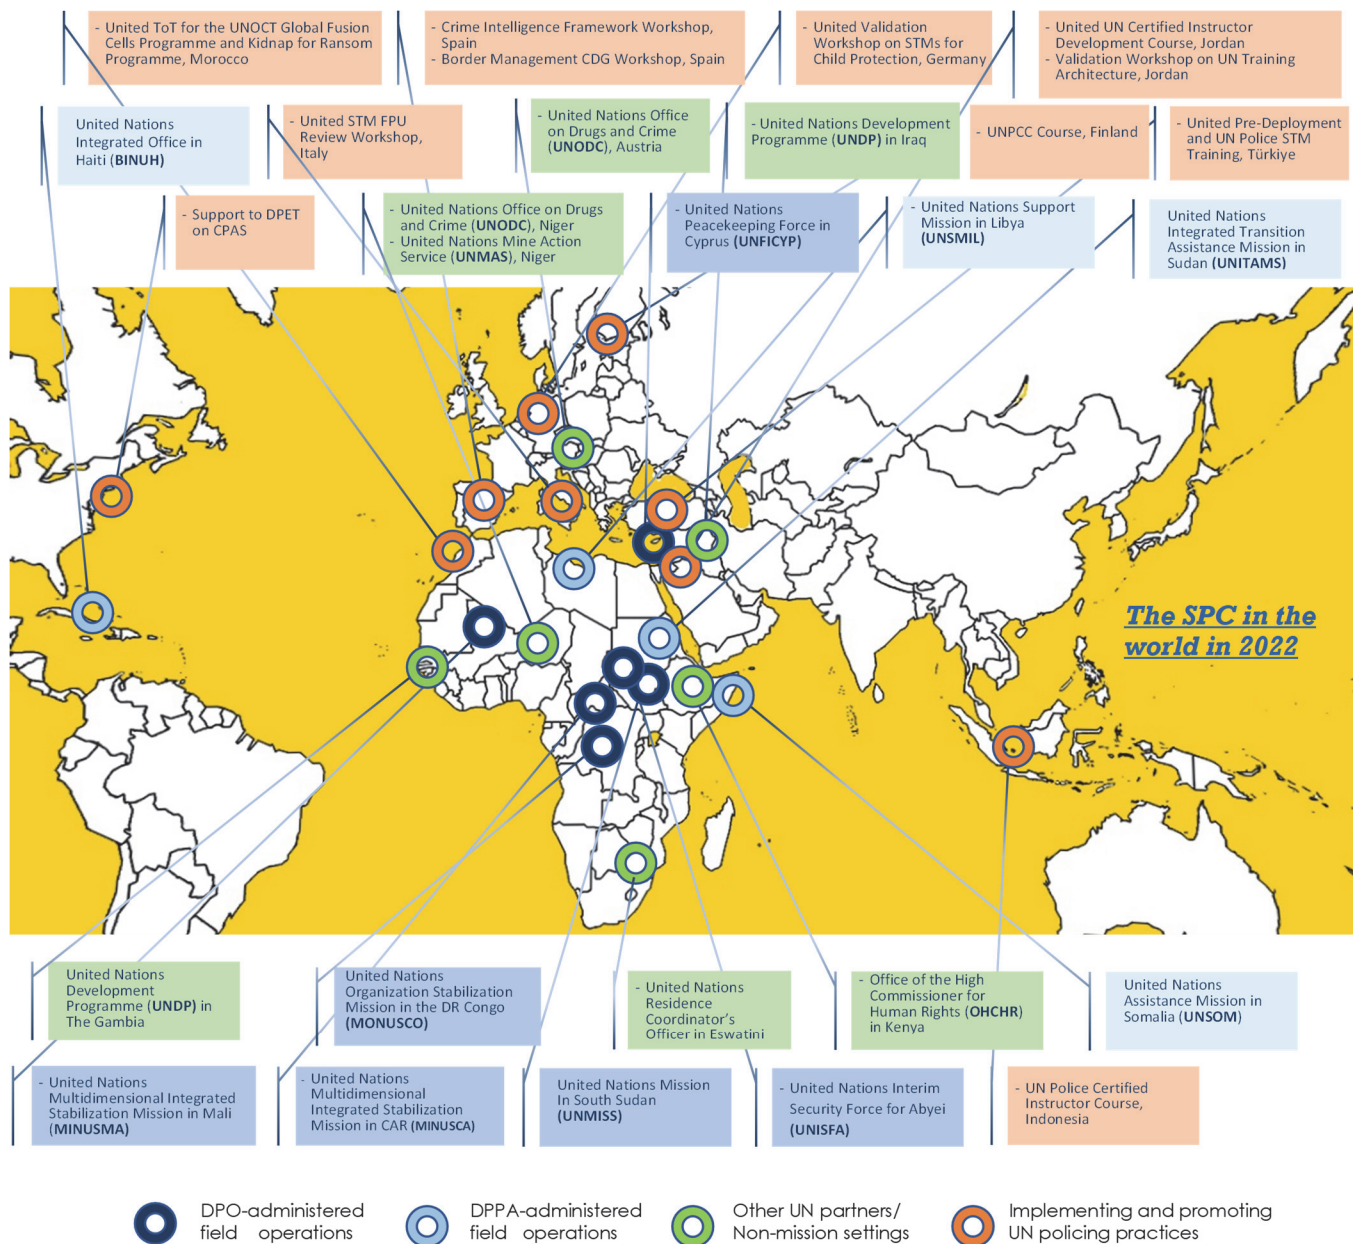

In 2022, the SPC continued in its role to:

- provide start-up capability for the police component of new UN peace operations;
- assist existing UN peace operations through the provision of police and other law enforcement advice and expertise (pp. 6-11);
- provide expertise to other UN partners such as DPPA (pp. 12-16) and UN agencies, funds, and programs (pp. 17-20);
- transmit experiences from the field and identify, implement, and promote effective UN policing practices (pp. 21-26).

Six DPO-led missions received SPC support either through deployment of its experts or through remote assistance from its Base in Brindisi, Italy. The police component of MINUSCA received support on monitoring, mentoring and advising (MMA) and on gender. In MONUSCO, SPC participated in the Military and Police Capability Study (MPCS), provided strategic and planning support in view of the Mission's drawdown and exit, and conducted legal review of mission-specific guidance. SPC participated in another MPCS exercise in UNFICYP and conducted a UNPOL internal evaluation in MINUSMA. It participated in the Rule of Law Surge Capacity in UNISFA, where it also supported the capacity building of the Community Protection Committees (CPCs) and the Joint Protection Committees (JCPs). In UNMISS, SPC provided support by ensuring the role of the Acting Head of Capacity Building and Development as well as the role of the Field Office Police Coordinator in Wau; it also joined forces in the review conducted in UNMISS by the Office for Peacekeeping Strategic Partnership.

Four DPPA-led missions received SPC support in 2022, again either through deployment of its experts, remote assistance from its Base in Brindisi, or most typically through a combination of these two modes of support. The Chief of SPC, Commissioner Orlor, twice ensured the role of Acting Police Commissioner in BINUH, where SPC also provided support in combating gang violence and in participating in an Assessment Team of UNHQ Independent Experts. In UNITAMS, SPC provided support to the Darfur Permanent Ceasefire Committee (PCC) and deployed one of its team leaders as Acting Police Commissioner. Four different SPC experts relayed their efforts to accompany phases 2 & 3 of the UNSMIL Ceasefire Monitoring Component (CMC) deployment. Finally, in UNSOM SPC provided planning support.

True to its role within OROLSI as a system-wide service provider, including through the Global Focal Point for the Rule of Law (GFP), SPC was present in non-mission settings too. It collaborated with and provided support to: UNDP in The Gambia on election security; UNRCO Eswatini for the Security Forces Scoping Mission; UNODC in Niger for the coordination of the training project "Femmes Provost pour le Sahel"; OHCHR in Kenya on election security; UNMAS in Niger for an assessment mission; and UNDP in Iraq for an anti-corruption program. SPC also participated in the 1st Intersessional Meeting of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs (CND) of UNODC.

In their deployments, SPC experts endeavor to mainstream gender issues and to be guided by the Strategic Guidance Framework for International Policing. They endeavor also to implement the Secretary-General's Action for Peacekeeping (A4P) initiative, Action for Peacekeeping Plus (A4P+) priorities, Agenda 2030 and Our Common Agenda, most specifically the following goals:

- Women, Peace & Security agenda by systematically integrating a gender perspective into planning and reporting (A4P);
- Protection through tailored, context specific approaches to protecting civilians (A4P)
- Performance and accountability including application of HRDDP to support to non-UN security forces (A4P);
- Peacebuilding and sustaining peace including through strengthening national ownership, planning for transition, and greater coherence among UN system actors (A4P);
- Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls (SDG 5);
- Promote peaceful inclusive societies for sustainable development, provide access to justice for all and build effective, accountable and inclusive institutions at all levels (SDG 16); and
- Partnership for the Goals (SDG 17).

Meeting with MINUSCA UNPOL

In August, SPC Police Reform Adviser Mr. Roman Karkach and SPC Gender Affairs Officer, Ms. Pauline Rivet Yameogo, were deployed to MINUSCA, with the triple objectives of analyzing the current state of play in terms of MINUSCA support to CAR Internal Security Forces (ISF) through monitoring, mentoring and advising (MMA), assisting MINUSCA Police with the development of a mission-specific guidance on UNPOL MMA, and assisting with the assessment and identification of critical gaps in the implementation of gender related initiatives and plans at both UNPOL and ISF levels.

LOOKIT

The SPC team developed a draft MINUSCA mission-specific guidelines on UNPOL MMA in CAR—adapted to the local context—and provided practical recommendations for the police component on the planning, implementation and follow-up on MMA related activities. Further, the team assisted with the assessment and identification of critical gaps in the implementation of gender related initiatives and plans, recommending actions to address the identified gaps, and supported capacity building of UNPOL Gender Advisers to improve their capacity to empower women within the ISF. This was complemented with training (table-top exercise) based on the UNPOL gender toolkit, for 33 MINUSCA Police officers, including 22 members of the UNPOL Women Network, women police officers in leadership positions and gender focal points.

This SPC deployment had been already planned for the early months of 2022 but had to be postponed to August 2022 due to the COVID-19 situation in the Mission area.

Did you know... The SPC was already part of the Police Advance Team for the start-up of MINUSCA in 2014 and, in 2015, supported the planning of the visit of the Pope to Bangui.

Workshop on CPAS, Goma

Meeting with PNC and UNDP experts on securing the 2023 elections

In May, SPC Human Resources Adviser, Mr. Ahmed Abdelrahim, participated in police part of the Military and Police Capability Study (MPCS) review of MONUSCO. The exercise comprised a desktop preparation, a field visit and the drafting and submission of the MPCS reports and implementation plans.

From May to June, extending support commenced the previous year, Mr. Abdelrahim together with SPC Legal Adviser, Mr. Jeffrey Buenger, remotely provided assistance with the aims of finalizing the MONUSCO Police Transition Framework, consolidating the Joint Police Reform Support Programme (JPRSP) and developing the associated Joint Action Plan.

Further support on strategic and transition planning was offered to MONUSCO between June and August, when Mr. Buenger and SPC Police Logistics Officer, Mr. Majed Hachaichi, travelled to Kinshasa and Goma.

They coordinated with MONUSCO Police, other mission components, the UN Country Team and national authorities to facilitate the implementation of the JPRSP with a particular focus on Ituri Province (Sector Bunia).

They also facilitated a number of training sessions for UNPOL, including on drafting official correspondence, project management and CPAS.

In December, Mr. Hachaichi helped the UPS, remotely, in developing the MONUSCO Police Annual Work Plan for 2023. Meanwhile, a team of four SPC experts—Ms. Inga Urlapova, Ms. Ghazaleh Meskoob, Mr. Jeffrey Buenger and Mr. Ahmed Elbadrawi—were deployed to DRC to provide multiple level support that was finalized in 2023. By end of December 2022 though, Mr. Buenger and Ms. Meskoob had already drafted and/or carried out the legal reviews of the SOP on Military and Police Joint Operations Mechanisms, on the PC's directives on the use of force, and on the PC's Directive for Building Capacity of MONUSCO Police.

Did you know... The SPC has been providing support to MONUC then MONUSCO since 2009, with no less than 32 distinct engagements.

From March to April, SPC Team Leader, Mr. Terje Loeland, and Police Reform Adviser, Mr. Roman Karkach, were deployed in Bamako with, as main objectives, to conduct a thorough assessment of the planning and coordination mechanisms between the UNPOL Development Pillar, the Serious Organized Crime Support Unit (SOC-SU) and the Specialized Police Teams (SPT), to identify organizational and functional deficiencies and coordination gaps, and to recommend relevant remedial actions to MINUSMA Police Commissioner.

Further, SPC conducted an internal evaluation of the UNPOL Serious Organized Crime Support Unit and provided recommendations to optimize the use of existing human resources and capabilities, with the aim of further enhancing UNPOL effectiveness.

In June, SPC Policy and Planning Officer, Mr. Stalbek Kurenkeev, participated in a UNFICYP Military and Police Capability Study (MPCS) conducted by the UN Headquarters in close coordination and collaboration with UNFICYP. The purpose of the MPCS was to assess the military and police capabilities of the Mission, to implement and achieve its mandate and to meet current and anticipated objectives and tasks.

Visit in the Buffer Zone

The study took into consideration the UN Secretary-General's A4P and A4P+ initiatives, the digitization of UNFICYP operations, and how the Office of Military Affairs (OMA) and the Police Division can support both current and future operations. The exercise comprised a desktop preparation, a field visit and the drafting and submission of the MPCS reports and implementation plan.

Discussing colocation with members of the JPCs

From March to May, SPC Legal Adviser, Mr. Jeffrey Buenger, along with a colleague from the Justice and Corrections Section in OROLSI, deployed as surge support to UNISFA to forward the drafting of a UN rule of law support strategy for Abyei, including a rule of law mapping and exploring models for coordination with the UN Country Teams in Sudan and South Sudan on rule of law issues. Further, they supported UNISFA in developing a strategy to manage serious incidents/violations, particularly those that involve the detention of individuals by the Mission, including Mission-specific guidance on detentions.

Field visit in Diffra, Northern Abyei Box

Mr. Buenger further supported UNISFA remotely in developing the Mission's CPAS results framework, building on earlier surge support in the development of a rule of law support strategy.

Starting a three-month deployment in December 2022, SPC Policy and Planning Officer Mr. Stalbek Kurenkeev, with initial support from SPC Budget Officer Mr. Sanjeev Joshi, supported the UNISFA police component in the areas of training, legal reviews, logistical planning, as well as capacity building of the Community Protection Committees (CPCs) and the Joint Protection Committees (JPCs) within the scope of the mandate. The SPC officers' roles were fundamental in strengthening the capacity of the CPCs and the JPCs, which lacked initially the skills required for their roles as community-based mechanisms to support law and order. The objective of the ToR was primarily to provide advice and help in the development of further guidance to enhance protection, security and rule of law processes through the CPCs/JPCs mechanism.

Did you know... The SPC provided start-up capacity the year UNISFA was established (2011), developed the Concept of Operations and reviewed existing SOPs, henceforth provided an expert who served as Acting Senior Police Adviser in 2012-13 to give police related strategic advisory support to the Head of the Mission.

Wau FOPC at a capacity building training to 44 SSNPS Detention Officers

From March to May, the Department of Peace Operations, Office for Peacekeeping Strategic Partnership (OPSP) conducted a review of UNMISS. SPC Public Order Adviser, Mr. Jan Christiaens contributed his specialized knowledge in the area of police. The aim of this OPSP review was to support stakeholders' ownership and acceptance thus insuring their integration. It led to the preparation of a confidential report that served to debrief IOT, PoAd, USG DPO and UNMISS leadership.

From June to August, SPC TOC Adviser Mr. Charles Mutua was deployed as the Wau Field Office Police Coordinator (FOPC), providing technical support in capacity building and development of colocation guidelines. This resulted in: a) improved trust between the UNPOL and South Sudan National Police Service (SSNPS) and the communities through training and engagement during colocation; b) enhanced responsiveness of the SSNPS to the security needs of communities; and c) improved flow of information between the SSNPS and local communities on security issues. Mr. Mutua had to work closely with the UNMISS Head of Field Office (HoFO) in Wau, other UNMISS section heads, and UN Agencies, Funds and Programmes, in order to implement the mandate of UNMISS/UNPOL in a coordinated manner.

From November 22 to January 23, SPC Community Policing Officer Ms. Annah Swoswe was deployed to act as Officer-in-Charge of the Capacity Building and Development Pillar of UNMISS Police. She conducted community-oriented policing and CBD workshops to UNPOL as well as to SSNPS and other external partners, organized sensitization program against gender-based violence, and reviewed key UNPOL documents that are critical in terms of capacity building of the local police, in particular the Co-location Framework and the SSNPS Election Handbook.

In January, SPC Public Order Adviser, Mr. Jan Christiaens, participated in a field visit to Haiti as part of the assessment team of UNHQ Independent Experts. The team interacted with BINUH officials, the Haitian Government, civil society, women's organizations and other stakeholders to analyze the political, socio-economic, and security environment of Haiti, as well as the delivery of BINUH's mandates. The assessment team provided recommendations to the Secretary-General, which would be considered for the renewal of BINUH's mandate by the Security Council.

The Chief SPC, Commr. Ann-Marie Orlor, served as Acting Police Commissioner providing crucial police leadership in the absence of the Police Commissioner from February to March and again from June to July. She also assisted the SRSG in negotiations with the Haitian Government and coordinated multiple donors to establish a basket fund for the Haitian National Police (HNP). A team of SPC officers consisting of SPC Team Leader, Mr. Jaime Cuenca, and Training Adviser, Mr. Amod Gurung, provided remote assistance to the Chief of SPC, including in the areas of police information and intelligence systems.

From July to October, SPC Public Order Adviser, Mr. Ahmed Elbadrawi, and Planning Officer, Ms. Marina Toivonen, were deployed to Haiti to support the BINUH Police in various activities related to the Joint Support Programme for the HNP multi-donor basket fund. This included assisting the HNP in assessing their Strategic Development Plan (SDP) 2017-2021, initiating the post-2021 plan, conducting a workshop on planning and development, and implementing a comprehensive project proposal on HNP intelligence. With remote backup support from Brindisi, the team also supported the development and implementation of the vetting project proposal to further enhance the morality checks of HNP personnel.

From August to September, Mr. Gurung provided technical advice for enhanced security assistance and engagement with the HNP and potential police-contributing countries for the HNP's efforts in combating gang violence. This support involved a combination of physical deployment and remote assistance.

Training of Trainers on Election Security

In 2021, the UN Residence Coordinator's Office (UNRCO) The Gambia and UNDP sought the support of the SPC, in a first phase of support ahead of the presidential elections of December 4, 2021. The primary objectives were to strengthen the capacity of Gambian security institutions to conduct peaceful, transparent, free, and fair elections based on the guiding principles for UN Police support in electoral processes, including security planning, coordination, and supporting the successful implementation of the security provisions for a peaceful and violence-free electoral process.

Phase 2 of the SPC support to the UNRCO and UNDP in The Gambia took place in 2022, with the deployment of SPC Police Reform Officer, Mr. Godfrey Aropet, from February to April 2022. This deployment had 2 main objectives: a) to conduct an electoral risk assessment, developing and producing electoral security training materials and training a core of trainers on international human rights standards and the roles and responsibilities of police in the electoral process; and b) to support the professional capacity building of the Gambia Police Force ahead of the April 2022 Local Council Election.

UNDP, OHCHR and SPC
meeting with the REPS
Technical Team

The Royal Eswatini Police Service (REPS) requested the United Nations to provide technical and financial support in the integration of human rights practices in police training. In February 2022, the REPS specified areas of the training. This included training in public order management during civil disorder, states of emergency and armed conflict, building public confidence, conflict resolution, ethical and legal police conduct, post-incident management and community safety among others.

A UN Scoping Mission including SPC, Mr. Amod Gurung, conducted a preliminary assessment as a first step to identify the gaps and needs in human rights integration in policing. The Scoping Mission assessed good practices and opportunities for effective application of the human rights-based approach to law enforcement, including regarding public order management. The Mission visited Lobamba Police Station and the Police Academy. It met with representatives of UN Agencies in Eswatini and was briefed on relevant ongoing support to government institutions, including the Police. Recommendations included short-term responses, the provision of training on policing in crises and the integration of human rights to the frontline and senior police officials.

From January to February, SPC Police Analyst, Mr. Mani Hamal, continued to support operationalizing the Darfur Permanent Ceasefire Committee (PCC) in Sudan as a remaining UNHQ Advance Team member. Mr. Hamal had deployed since August 2021 with other UNHQ Advance Team members from the Office of Military Affairs (OMA) and DDR Standing Capacity officers, to support UNITAMS in setting up and operationalizing the PCC. The PCC is composed of representatives from the Government and Armed Struggle Movements (ASMs) of Darfur and chaired by UNITAMS staff as per the Juba Peace Agreement for durable peace in Darfur (JPA).

As member of the Advance Team, Mr. Hamal supported the PCC and its Chair in all operational matters including maintaining a permanent ceasefire and making transitional security arrangements in Darfur, also providing them police advisory support. He further supported the PCC Chair in successfully completing its Phase 1 of operationalization: reassurance (start-up) of UNITAMS PCC and transfer of the responsibility of the PCC Secretariat to newly recruited Military officers and IPOs. During Phase 2 of the PCC operationalization, he supported PCC Chair in achieving UNITAMS' objective of supporting peace processes and implementing the JPA. Subsequently, from March to May, he provided remote assistance to the new PCC staff including IPOs for the further operationalization of PCC.

From September to December, SPC Team Leader, Mr. Terje Loeland, served as UNITAMS Acting Police Commissioner (PC) to fill the leadership gap during the selection process for the replacement of former Police Commissioner. Mr. Loeland carried out the regular duties of the PC, which included: providing strategic leadership and overall direction; command and control over all personnel, operations and activities of the UNITAMS Police Advisory Unit (PAU) including gender mainstreaming; issuing directives and rules for the effective functioning of the PAU; and advising the SRSG on all police-related matters. The two SPC experts (right) during phase 2 of the CMC deployment

Since 2021, the SPC—with Transnational Crime Officer, Ms. Basundhara Khadka, and Public Order Officer, Mr. Nedal Rashdan—had already participated, as monitors, in the start-up of the UNSMIL Ceasefire Monitoring Component (CMC). This phase 1 of the support involved the development of specific documents to assist the planning process for the CMC, support the finalization of the workplan and support planning related to the provision of advice and assistance to the Libyan Ceasefire Monitoring Mechanism (LCMM).

Support provided during the subsequent phase 2, with the deployment from December 2021 to May 2022 of SPC Human Resources Officer Ms. Shamsunnahar and Planning Officer Mr. Stalbek Kurenkeev, focused on the drafting of a number of key planning and strategic documents (CMC Strategic Plan, Concept Note for Sharing of Experiences Workshop for the LCMM and SOPs) and on drafting the ToR to ensure ease of support and cooperation between UNSMIL/CMC and the Libyan actors; it also focused on ensuring a smooth deployment and establishment of the CMC in Sirte.

In addition, the SPC team actively took part, as part of the CMC, in monitoring the security and political issues related to ceasefire agreement with the Joint Monitoring Committee (JMC 5+5), and developed an operational tactical plan on assisting the Libyans to monitor the withdrawal of foreign fighters and mercenaries.

Extending the support provided to UNSMIL, in the 3rd of the UNSMIL/CMC deployment phases, Mr. Rashdan and SPC Community Policy Adviser, Mr. Getu Tiku, deployed from May to August to ensure continuity of functions until the arrival of the selected ceasefire monitors. They focused on finalizing the CMC Strategic Plan and related operational directives, providing advice to the LCMM and guidance to international monitors; they also supported the CMC engagement with the Libyan 5+5 JMC, 4+4 local monitors and other relevant interlocutors.

February to April	1 expert	Deployment

SPC Policy & Planning Officer, Ms. Marina Toivonen, deployed to UNSOM from February to April to provide key planning inputs and assist in developing an UNSOM Police Theory of Change and Work Plan 2022. Prior to her deployment, she carried out a detailed desk review and held extensive meetings with her counterparts in the Mission. During her deployment, she held regular consultation meetings with the UNSOM Police management and IPOs in Mogadishu and in the Federal Member States (FMS) field offices.

Ms. Toivonen provided support in finalizing the UNSOM Police Theory of Change process that sets out the programmatic approach (used to implement the essential political strategies) and provided support in finalizing the ROLSIG Section Work Plan 2022 for UNSOM Police. Then, with UNSOM Police staff members in Jubaland, Southwest State, Hirshabelle, Galmudug and Puntland, she drafted the respective FMS Field Office Work Plans to align with the UNSOM Police Section Work Plan 2022. To give UNSOM IPOs a first-hand understanding of planning and implementation of UNSOM mandate, she organized and facilitated a two-day UNSOM Police Planning Retreat that used inclusive and participatory approach.

Group work during the UNSOM Police Planning Retreat

In addition, Ms. Toivonen participated in Somalia's National Weapons and Ammunition Management (WAM) Coordination Meeting, organized by the Office of National Security (ONS), on 19-20 March. The Meeting brought together high-level officials, technical teams from the federal and state governments, and international partners. WAM is a top priority in Somalia because it improves conditions for security and stabilization, and UNSOM Police has played a key role in supporting Somalia Police Forces in developing an asset management system and related policy documents.

She also drafted the UNSOM Police Action Plan 2022 that includes benchmarks, outcomes, priority activities and targets for mandate implementation; that involved also support to IPOs in drafting the individual workplans of their performance appraisals to reflect the UNSOM Police Action Plan 2022. Finally, SPC support was also provided in developing the lay-out for the update of the FMS Strategic Police Plans and the use of alternative consultations methodologies during the process.

Support to DPO's Policy Evaluation and Training Division in the implementation of the Comprehensive Planning and Performance Assessment System (CPAS)

The Comprehensive Planning and Performance Assessment System (CPAS) was the first comprehensive tool for UN peacekeeping to bring together integrated planning and impact assessment in iterative cycles. CPAS improves the information basis for analysis, decision-making, reporting, and advocacy, as well as forward planning, based on what has proven most impactful.

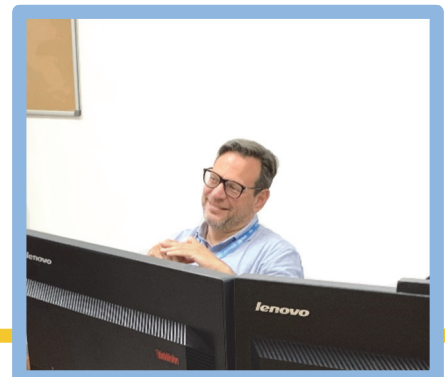

The SPC has been involved with the CPAS since 2019, when three SPC experts started to provide support to the Policy, Evaluation, and Training Division (DPET) with the CPAS roll-out to MINURSO, MONUSCO, UNFICYP, UNIFIL, UNMIK and UNMISS. Support continued across 2020 and 2021, including in the development of thematic and cross-mission analyses with a particular focus on UN Police.

In 2022, SPC involvement with CPAS continued through the SPC Legal Adviser, Mr. Jeffrey Buenger, whose engagement included:

- Coordinating work to potential develop four to five policing-related outcome or impact indicators, which could link to CPAS, across peacekeeping operations with police components to provide UN Police with information against key agreed indicators and data-driven communications materials.
- Delivering sensitization training on CPAS for SPC and other UNGSC-based standing capacities.
- Delivering a hybrid presentation with SPC Team Leader, Mr. Terje Loeland, on CPAS to the UAE-hosted Police Division Performance Workshop (11 August 2022, see p. 29).
- As part of an SPC deployment to MONUSCO, identification of challenges and accompanying solutions to ensure full contribution and participation of UNPOL to and in the CPAS processes, including identification of relevant indicators for UNPOL-related activities (see p. 8 on support to MONUSCO).
- Remote support to UNISFA in development of their results framework, building on earlier surge support in development of a rule of law support strategy (see p. 10 on support to UNISFA).
- Remote support to the UNMISS Police component, sharing lessons from MONUSCO on identifying policing-related impact and outcome indicators (see p. 11 on support to UNMISS).
- Inclusion of CPAS briefings at the UN Police Commanders Course in Tampere, Finland (see p. 24).
